

Princess Diamonds Goes To Public School

Written by Mamie Jefferson-Hill and Diane Baker

Illustrated by Geneva Forte

Tex Ware
Everett, WA

Princess Diamonds Goes to Public School

© 2010 text by Mamie Jefferson-Hill and Diane Baker and illustrations by Geneva Forte
All Rights Reserved

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any way by any means—electronic, mechanical, photocopy, recording or otherwise—without the prior permission of the copyright holder, except as provided by USA copyright law.

ISBN 978-1-935500-13-1

Library of Congress Control Number: 2010933533

To Geneva Forte

This book is the result of Geneva's hard work, focus, and dedication. She worked diligently on the elaborate artwork. It is a privilege and a pleasure to have a former Hallmark greeting card artist create such beautiful illustrations for this book.

This is a royal clown family. One day while having dinner, the momma clown, also known as Queen Sapphire, said to her daughter Diamonds, "Your father and I are going to have a party for you."

Diamonds said, "But I don't have any friends. Who will you invite?"

King Henry said. "We will invite the neighbors to your party, which will be held in our castle."

Diamonds

agreed, "A party is a great idea! I will practice juggling so that I can entertain my guests." The little princess was happy about being able to meet kids at her party.

When the guests arrived, Diamonds tried to entertain them by juggling, but she was too clumsy.

Her parents were very embarrassed. At least there was good food and happy clown music at the party.

